Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King does not think the C.C.F. has a snowball's chance of securing control of the House of Commons. No one can be sure of that but Mr. King is on firmer ground when he says it will not control the Senate and will therefore not be able to carry out its program. Perhaps at that stage it will not care, and will be glad to have some body which it can bless privately and curse publicly for standing in the way. This has happened more than once in Canadian history.

Heywood Broun takes to task those U.S. athletes who are fertile of excuses when they fail to win international competitions, and instances the case of one golfer who attributed his defeat to the strong east wind. Mr. Broun makes the obvious comment that the east wind was blowing just as strongly against the English competitor.

Voltaire in that famous paragraph where he says the English shot one admiral "to encourage the others" points out that Admiral Byng was shot because he did not attack the French fleet which was only a short distance away. He makes a similar comment to that of Heywood Broun, viz., that the British fleet was exactly the same distance from the French fleet as the French fleet was from the British. The French admiral did not attack either but he was not shot "pour encourager les autres."

Those Jews who last winter, staged demonstrations in Toronto against Hitlerism should realize by this time that it was a mistake to make Canada the stamping ground for hostile demonstration against a friendly power. An organization somewhat like the Nazis has sprung up in Toronto and is flaunting swastika emblems, and police have had some difficulty in preventing clashes. It is not likely that this is a counter-demonstration against the anti-Hitler demonstrations. We can do without them.

MISS BEULAH WALKER, L.A.B.

Resident teacher for the Vulcan branch of the Lethbridge Conservatory of Music, who will re-open classes on Friday, Sept. 1.

Brunton Farewell

Presented With Praise from Congregation of United Church

Rev. J. N. Brunton and Mrs. Brunton were guests of honor at a farewell party tendered by the congregation of the United Church and citizens of Vulcan on Friday evening.

A program of musical selections opens the evening farewell party after Chairman W. D. Allan told of the purpose of the gathering. Contributors to this program were Miss Rose Hartwig, Wm. Walker and the McPherson sisters' trio.

Speeches of appreciation of the work of Rev. and Mrs. Brunton in the community were given by Mrs. W. Schenck, representing the Ladies' Aid; Mrs. B. D. Lockhart, representing the W.M.S.; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Irving, representing the Sunday school; W. E. Butchart representing the congregation and Miss Clara Gold representing the C.G.I.T. groups. Miss Gold presented Mrs. Brunton with a silver cake basket and silverware on behalf of the C.G.I.T. Both guests of honor answered in an appropriate manner.

W. D. Allan, chairman of the board of the United Church then presented Mr. Brunton with a purse and read the following letter from the members of the congregation:

"We, the members of your congregation and friends of the community greatly regret the departure of you, Mrs. Brunton and Douglass from our midst. In the many years of your faithful and loving ministry we have proven your worth to us and regret that we cannot more fully convey to you all that you have meant to us in times of sorrow and sickness, as well as our religious and social life. We will miss your sterling Christian personality from our church as well as our community, but we feel that our loss will be another's gain. We wish you God's choicest blessings in your new field of labor and ask you to accept this small token of our esteem and appreciation of your sincere and faithful service in our midst."

Rev. Brunton thanked the congregation for their expression of friendship and good will and assured them that Mrs. Brunton and himself would carry away with them to their new home in the north, many dear memories of joy and sorrow. Continuing, Mr. Brunton said: "We have endeavored to share and sympathize these in our own simple way. Memories will also be carried away of the work done, the work attempted and the work that remains to be done. The best of my life, and this church must always be dear to my heart."

"You have shown me kindness and forbearance which I do not deserve and have given me credit for individual effort of which I am not worthy. I thank you for all your kindness. We are not going very far away and our thoughts shall often be back in Vulcan recalling those happy years when we were welding those links of friendship and love which we trust time can never sever."

Following the program and speeches the Ladies' Aid served delicious ice cream and cake in the hall of the church.

During the past week two sign painters have made the rounds of Vulcan with brightly painted sign work. King's Drug Store, New Club Cafe, McLargan and Manson, F. L. Rev. Dr. Kerby of Calgary will have charge of the services at the Vulcan United Church on Sunday and Rev. P. G. McPherson of Edmonton will arrive to take over the pastorate next week and will have charge of the services on the following Sunday. A special musical treat has been arranged for the congregation this Sunday when Mr. A. McMurdo of Pincher Creek will render solo selections. Mr. McMurdo won first honors at the recently held Provincial Musical Festival.

During the early hours of Sunday morning some mysterious thief entered the business premises of the Arme Motor Company and stole a money bag containing slightly over $18. Entrance was gained through the back door. The loss was noted on Sunday and reported. To add to the mystery of disappearance, is the mysterious re-appearance of the money on Sunday on the door step of one of the employees of the business. Corporal Forsland, R.C.M.P., is investigating the case.

Clyde Clark, a former Vulcan school graduate who was moved from here to Trochu by his employers, the Bank of Montreal, has figured greatly in the success of the baseball club of that town. In the recent play-off games between Blackie and Trochu the local fans had an opportunity to see him in the pitcher's box and his work was well commented by the spectators.

Vulcan schools will re-open for the 1933-34 term on Tuesday, Sept. 5th. Principal Irvine urges all pupils to be in attendance for the opening and receive the benefit of the full term course. All teachers of the staff with the exception of A. R. Harrigan, have been re-engaged for the term, taking the position thus vacated is D. Allred, who for the past month has been resident in town with wife and family. During the holidays many minor repairs have been made to the school buildings and all is in readiness for the ding dong of the school bell on Tuesday morning.

Pete McIntyre, Gordon McKay and O. V. Hickman of the Vulcan district put in a good holiday recently at Banff. Being discriminating lovers of music their souls responded to the sweet strains of the bagpipes. Hickman, however, claimed that his soul revolted from the caterwauling. But it was noticed that when "Little Willie's Lament" was played, Hickman was visibly affected. They had splendid success in fishing, by the simple process of hiring a man with twenty-three years experience and letting him do the work.—High River Times.

A strange market consignment has been made to the Rodney Service Station of Vulcan. A Vancouver firm has asked them to purchase tires that have been used and are useless for more mileage on cars or trucks. These tires are shipped in huge quantities by the Vancouver firm to China where they are cut up and manufactured into sandals and worn by the natives of that country. This novel use for the castaway rubber has proved popular and the sandals are featured by street sellers of China. Rodney's Service is combining the purchase of these old tires with the purchase by motorists of new ones. Direct advertising printed by the Advocate Printery has been distributed announcing the plan.

Vulcan has been included in the itinerary of 47 towns for the fall lecture campaign by the Alberta Business Committee for its Made-in-Alberta Goods' drive. Announcement of the campaign was made by A. C. McKay, provincial secretary of the Retail Merchants Association and secretary of the committee, recently. Mr. McKay accompanied by Howard Stuchbury, provincial trade commissioner, will lecture in each town listed on the advantage of purchasing made-in-Alberta goods when price and quality are the same. The date has not been set for Vulcan but will be announced in ample time for attendance by all who are interested. Besides visiting Vulcan, Aldersyde-Lethbridge branch a visit will be made at Carmargay, thus covering two large territories with interesting advice.

Vulcan had many sport visitors during the noon hour on Saturday. The Calgary Hillhurst football team made Vulcan their stop-off point on a journey to Lethbridge and the White Spots football team of Calgary, stopped off to greet friends on a journey to the same point. Of a great deal of interest was both sport contests entered by these different teams, much so in the football game for in the line-up was a former Vulcan footballer, T. Coulter, who played with the local club when sport was sport in town. He figured greatly in the defeat of the Lethbridge Supinas in the semi-final of the provincial championships on Saturday. Vulcan fans were interested in the White Spots and have followed their activities during the season in softball circles, having recently played the Vulcan team. They defeated Lethbridge and advanced into the provincial finals as a result of games played over the week end.

CHARLES CLARK, Proprietor

NIRA

The National Industrial Recovery Administration at Washington has quickly reached the stage of abbreviation. It is now called "Nira" (a reminder of the war time Dora) and the press of Canada is as much concerned in the success of Nira, as is that of United States.

If President Roosevelt succeeds with Nira, it may provide a lead for some similar Canadian policy.

As the scope of the recovery plan extends, greater difficulties rise, but there is no doubt that the spirit which initiated this nation wide program is gathering amazing strength, and Nira's symbol of the Blue Eagle may be seen in all industrial areas from Boston to San Francisco.

Mr. Roosevelt's plan of raising wages and reducing hours in every field of industrial effort, brings Nira into conflict with various employers and labor organizations. Whether the situation is sufficiently serious to win acceptance in all ranks, is the question on which the success of the plan hangs. Evidently Mr. Roosevelt and his battalion of brains, think it is. Their campaign for the restoration of prosperity has every aspect of stringent war-time measure. But their war is against apathy and greed two of the most destructive qualities of the human race.

About seven hundred industry codes have been submitted to Washington and assembled as a Blanket Code. In some instances employers have refused to accept the schedules suggested, claiming that they could not remain in business if doing so. Some express apprehension of the recognition given to the American Federation of Labor, which is receiving such prestige as it has not had since the labor shortage of 1917. A minimum wage has been set for lowest paid classes, and this may only be a step toward fixing all wages from bottom to top.

If there was assurance that the measures being taken were emergency measures only, as in case of war, the American industrialists, both employer and employee, would probably stand back of Nira honestly and conscientiously.

But the uncertainty as to how far this program will take them, is causing hesitation and conflict.

Mr. Roosevelt has attacked his stupendous tasks heroically. He deserves nation-wide support, even though the success his proposals are not guaranteed always by precedent.

OH! HAPPY DAY

Under the caption of "No More Poverty" an article by H. G. Wells loomed up the other day. It was a breath-taking thought, but a perusal of the story, is an anticlimax. It is not until the twenty-first century that poverty will be abolished. This is not of much practical benefit to those who live in the here and now, unless we can return for the experience.

Mr. Wells predicts that in 2106 A.D. there will be no skyscrapers. Social life will be organized round public clubs with sports' halls, studios and other social centres. He foresees a new era of homes, quickly erected and even more quickly demolished. "We no longer think it meet," he writes, as of the year 2106 "to wear another man's abandoned house than to wear the old clothes of the dead."

And speaking of clothes, he recalls the filthy twentieth century, when "men would wear their underclothes for years, having them painfully washed out, dried, ironed and returned weekly, and they would wear their complex outer garments with all the old fastenings, buttons, straps buckles and so forth, sometimes for years. They had to be made of dark fabrics with broken patterns to conceal their griminess." But in the new day, he goes on, clothes are scanty and healthful, and are replaced at least every three days by new garments. Nothing is washed. Laundries are forgotten. Cobblers are unknown.

And in the world of 2106, travel becomes the simplest of matters. Mr. Wells sees the ordinary man of the day arranging overnight for a vacation to the ends of the earth. Off he goes in the clothes he wears, armed only with his wallet, his identification papers, and perhaps a memorandum book or something he may desire to read. Whatever else he is likely to need he is likely to find on his way. Everyone moves about freely—and poverty is something about which one reads in history books.

MUCH TOO OPTIMISTIC

Ontario's attorney-general is touring in Great Britain and recently addressed a Glasgow audience. In his talk he naturally boosted Canada, which was all to the good. But when he suggested that the Dominion was ready to absorb millions of British emigrants in the next 25 years he was surely allowing his enthusiasm to get the better of common sense.

Not today, nor until we have emerged from this world economic slump will Canada be in a position to absorb immigrants even in lots of thousands, to say nothing at all of millions. Not even if these British immigrants were financed over a term of years by British dole funds, as has been proposed, would it be safe for Canada at this time to open her gates to them. There still remains too great uncertainty as to the future to warrant any such magnificent gesture of optimism concerning it.

And, as has been said before, if there is any suggestion of assisted land settlement at this time, or at any time in which sons of Canadian citizens are anxious to settle on the land but are prevented because of lack of funds, first consideration should be paid to them and their needs.

An eastern contemporary makes the suggestion that if there is disposition on the part of British authorities and financiers to invest money in the settlement in Canada of eligible Britishers now on the dole, they might better send the cash to Canada for investment in industrial or other enterprises with greater chance of profitable return to themselves and of permanent advantage to this Dominion. —Calgary Herald.

INFLUENCE OF PRESS

Ontario and Quebec divisions of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association have named an editorial committee to draft out a "leadership" policy for the weekly press of the two provinces.

Assuming rightly that the majority of weekly newspapers are politically independent, the committee will summarize certain policies and beliefs which might be promoted by the weekly press. When these are presented, further discussion will evolve coherent principles which all weeklies can advance and follow up, for general national improvement.

The same plan might very well be carried out in the West. As has been observed by city editors, the country weekly is in close contact with the great mass of Canadian people. Its first duty is to record conditions in its own environment and urge such policies as will benefit its own area. But national issues are no less important, and every community has a tie-up with national affairs.

In suggesting policies which Western weeklies could very ably promote—and do promote—the most important are those which have to do with grain farming and the growing of livestock. Throughout the West these industries are the mainstay of the people. And only through better prices and better markets for wheat and livestock can the population prosper. The farmers and cattlemen alike are suffering through lack of a national livestock marketing plan. In the export market they are hampered by a thousand little extra charges in transportation and care of stock, charges that completely destroy the profits of labor. In the domestic market, judging from the spread between producer and consumer prices, they are victimized by middle men and combines.

Anything that can be done by weekly newspapers to give publicity to the handicaps under which livestock men suffer, whether in the field of cattle raising, hog raising, sheep raising or dairy production, would be of value. A combined effort on the part of all weeklies would at least reflect public opinion.

Similarly in the arena of wheat growing, the actual conditions under which farmers operate, the necessity for good farming methods, the eternal struggle involved in maintaining wheat standards, could well be kept constantly before the public.

As a matter of fact, these features are stressed by the press, as well as any factors which would advance the condition of the primary producers. But if all Western weeklies pledged themselves to definite policies, the combined voices might have more influence, than by scattered suggestion.

Many other policies also suggest themselves as meriting the unanimous support of independent weeklies. Amongst these are the need of a greater government economy, the need of balancing the budget, and the need of a business administration for the nation's business.

The C.W.N.A. will hold its annual meeting shortly. It is to be hoped that it will discuss the sphere of influence of the weekly press, and adopt certain policies to which all may subscribe, and which will express the opinion of the man on the street, and the man in the field. Then the power of the press would be more than a phrase.

U. F. A. AT COMMISSION

Creation of a nationally owned bank was favored in submissions made before the Royal Commission on Banking Friday by the United Farmers of Alberta. The U.F.A. document declared only this type of bank could meet the present situation.

"It is evident," the U.F.A. submission said, "that a central bank, if it be a 'bankers' bank' will tend to serve the interests of private profit-making in the operation of the money system. On the other hand, the creation of a nationally owned bank, such as we propose, would mean the retention by the community of a function which is rightfully theirs and which they should never surrender; and it would transfer to the community power over the economic life of Canada which is today mainly in the hands of private financial institutions."

Control of Credit

The U.F.A. proposed the nationally owned bank be an arm of the government with control of credit and operated in the service of the people on a cost basis, thereby eliminating "present enormous interest charges." The bank would be controlled by a board of governors appointed by the governor-in-council from men suggested by major economic activities.

The U.F.A. brief, contended that it was impossible to obtain from the Dominion Government precise statistics bearing on the concentration of wealth. These, however, are available in United States, and there seems the best reasons for believing a similar condition is developing in Canada.

Farmer Debt

During the war, the submissions declared, farmers were urged to produce greatly as a patriotic duty, many of them going heavily into debt for both land and machinery. In 1918 and 1919 banks advised farmers to borrow money to produce cattle. When the 1929 deflation occurred, many farmers were still heavily in debt. Now they find themselves practically without credit facilities, the banks apparently unable or unwilling to advance credit.

It was declared it would be in the interest of Canada to see credit was available to farmers at greatly reduced rates, and efforts made to raise the price level of commodities. Banks, the U.F.A. declared, were charging farmers interest on loans from 8 to 12 per cent. despite the fact the Bank Act declares 7 per cent. to be the maximum.

"Unfortunately, no penalty is provided for violation of this section of the act. So far as we know, this is the only instance in which any law of Canada can be broken without making those who break it liable to pay a penalty for so doing."

SOW ONLY BEST SEED

The crop improvement project conducted by the Searle Grain Company throughout the West, is a very worthy undertaking and it was unfortunate that harvest operations prevented many farmers from being present at the field day at Lou Russell's farm near Blackie, last week. The aim is to raise the general level of Canadian wheat, which means an improved quality of wheat for export, better market for our surpluses and higher premiums to farmers. The Searle plan of having seed from farmers' crops sown on plots and later analyzed and classified by an expert in order to ascertain if the farmer should change his seed, is very practical and farmers who have taken advantage are being benefited by a better strain of wheat.

Youngest Ladybird

Although she has been flying since she was thirteen, it was only on reaching her sixteenth birthday, recently, that Miss Pretto Bell, of Glendale, Calif., was permitted to make a solo flight for her pilot's license. Miss Bell, who aviation officials say is one of the best mechanics in the country, is here shown as she started off on her first solo trip.

HERE THERE AND ELSEWHERE

Old age pensioners in Alberta increased by approximately 817 for last month, compared with July, 1932, according to statistics released by the old age pension board. Last month there were approximately 5,562 pensioners, costing a total of $100,000, compared with 4,745 pensioners during the same period last year, costing $89,000. Cost in June, 1933, was $99,000. There were 112 new applicants accepted for old age pensions last month out of 171 applications.

On Monday night, the town of Didsbury received a rude shock when a truck loaded with gasoline caught fire in front of the Bank of Montreal. Drums of gas exploded in all directions, plate glass windows were shattered, and it was with difficulty a serious blaze was suppressed. The truck was being driven from Turner Valley to Sylvan Lake with eleven drums of gas, and had stopped under an arc light to refuel the truck from one of the drums. Explosions of the drums were heard for miles and crowds arrived in no time from Olds and Carstairs to see what had happened.

The complete turnover in the Nova Scotia elections, has thrilled and electrified all Liberals in Canada without visibly depressing the Conservatives. The win of 22 to 8, gives the New Premier, Angus Macdonald, great backing. This brilliant young leader is a brother of Judge Macdonald of Calgary and an old classmate of X.P. Crispo of High River. The New Glasgow Eastern Chronicle, edited by Don Fraser, valiantly championed the cause of the new government. Many are of the opinion that the presence of L. H. Stack of Vulcan on the battleground, turned the tide of victory.

TOO MANY PROFIT MAKERS IN TRADE

Mackenzie King Stresses "Secret Agreements" That Boost Original Prices

Mackenzie King at Lethbridge enlarged on several points which he touched upon only briefly in High River. Speaking of liberating internal trade and putting an end to artificial price control he said:

"By secret understandings and agreements there was a great spread between the price the farmer got and what the consumer paid. In the cattle trade there was not only the buyer's profit, there was the profit of the slaughter combination; there was the wholesale houses' profit. The secret combines were the outcome of high tariffs in favor of special interests against the interest of the public. An investigation should be made. That is the way the Liberal party would proceed. Profits are necessary, but not profits for special interests at the expense of the general interests.

A Central Bank

"The Liberal party," said Mr. King "were pledged to the control of credit. Credit is a public matter and not merely that of bankers. In pursuance of this policy there would be established a central bank, not a bankers' bank, but one in the interest of the people. Capitalistic investors are today getting the benefit of credit rather than the great body of the people. There was no need of a banking commission to tell us that we need a central bank." The speaker criticized the formation of the present banking commission, stating that interests which should be represented on it, such as the farming and labor interests, were not represented.

"An investment control board was in the policy of the Liberal party," continued Mr. King, "to prevent exploitation of the public through the sale of watered stock and worthless securities. The safeguarding of the national railways in the public interest was contained in the Liberal policy."

ONE INCH OF SOIL IN 10,000 YEARS

"Many people look upon the soil as a cold, inert, lifeless mass of mere mud or dirt, about which there is little to know, and in which there can be no interest," says Professor Summerby of Macdonald College. "Contrary to this, the true facts are that if it is teeming with life; its history is that of the history of the world; and its problems are so many and so deep as to challenge the best minds of the country. All soil was at one time solid rock. By a long series of chemical, mechanical, and biological changes it has been changed from the original rock into soils that now produce grain, hay, pasture, apples, potatoes, violets and geraniums. Many are the influences which have operated, but, very slowly and surely, changes do take place. As measured in terms of the life of man, the soil is very old. It has been estimated that the formation of one inch of soil from limestone rock takes about ten thousand years. The processes which have changed rock into soil are still going on and now exert a very important influence on the fertility of our soils."

ANACONDA NO 2 ON VERGE OF FLOW

This Well is in the South End of Turner Valley

Interesting developments may take place at Anaconda No. 2 well, in south Turner Valley, within the next few weeks, it was learned today.

The company is running 10% casing to just above the Home sands. It was in the Dalhousie formation that Merland No. 1, large nearby producer, struck a heavy flow of wet gas, which ignited, destroying the derrick. Anaconda No. 2 is in a triangle, formed by Merland No. 1 producer on the west, and the Marjon-Freehold 'producer on the south.

Drilling to completion is being financed by sale of royalties by Fay Becker and associates, of Calgary.

ALBERTATwo Will Receive Sentence Thursday

The following report from the city news of the Lethbridge Herald tells of the two men recently held in connection with the robbery of the Vulcan Supply Co. store and the Vulcan Dry Goods store:

Charged with retaining certain merchandise, knowing them to have been stolen, William Ryan and Albert Edmunds elected to be tried by Magistrate Hamilton in city police court on Friday morning, both pleading guilty to the charges. Both were remained until Thursday morning.

Both admitted to a long series of imprisonments during the past five years. Convictions against the pair included breaches of the Railway Act theft, carrying firearms, etc.

Ryan assumed all the guilt in the present charge, saying that his companion did not know the goods had been stolen. He was a native of Ontario, he said, and was 28 years of age. He was forced to break the law in order to live as he had been refused admission to relief camps from time to time.

The magistrate ordered restitution of the stolen property.

ALBERTA'S CROP IS SUMMARIZED

Dom. Bureau Statistics Gives Alberta One of Lowest Yields in History

The latest crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, gives Alberta outlook as follows:

"Judged by conditions at July 31, the average wheat yield for Alberta will be one of the lowest, if not the lowest on record for that province. This is mainly due to lack of rain in southern and east-central districts where the wheat acreage is most concentrated. Less than half an average crop is indicated for districts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 taking in the entire southern half of the province, which have 5,100,000 acres seeded to wheat. Prospects at July 31 were for below average crops in the remainder of the province.

"During July, depreciation was most marked in districts 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 10 (in a general way the southwestern and east-central parts). In the northwestern and north districts, higher moisture reserves supported the crops during the dry periods.

"Crop districts 1 and 3 in the south east declined only slightly because of heavy local showers, which relieved the crops, particularly along the Fore most line. Districts 2, 4 and 5 (in the southwest corner and east-central) suffered from extreme drought. District 4 was visited by a heavy frost which caught wheat in the flower or early filling stages, reducing both grade and yield. District 5 fell in condition from 46 to 23 during the month. The northern and western districts (9-17) show wheat prospects to be about 5 to 10 per cent. below average."

"You say your son plays the piano like Paderewski?" "Yes. He uses both hands."

Aunt Helen—So you took your first dancing lesson today. Did you find it hard, dear? Wee Nephew—No, auntie; it's easy enough. All you have to do is to keep turnin' round and wipin' your feet.

In Chicago, a couple applying for divorce, testified that for ten days they had communicated with messages written on the tablecloth and letters picked from the vegetable soup.

"Are you the gentleman who gave my little brother a dog last week?" asked a small High River boy. "I am the man." "Well, mother says to come and take them all back."

Old Lady—Are you fully qualified? Cecil—Yes, ma'am. Old Lady—Did you pass all your examinations? Cecil—I did. Old Lady—Have you ever poisoned anybody by mistake? Cecil, (indignantly)—Certainly not. Old Lady—Very well, then, I will have a nickel's worth of cough drops.

States under the National Recovery Administration. Employers of labor refusing to accept the codes of General Hugh S. Johnston are threatened with and subjected to boycott. The end may justify it, but it is a drastic operation. So far as employers of labor are concerned it is voluntary with them whether they accept or reject the codes, but what General Johnston says is "you may do as you please but if you don't do what we please, we shall ask the people to boycott your goods."

Governments have engaged in boycotts before but always against other countries. What are retaliatory tariffs, embargoes and anti-dumping legislation but a species of boycott? Britain boycotts the Free State because of its failure to pay land annuities and the Free State answers it with a boycott of English goods. But this action of General Johnston is entirely different. Acting for the government he calls upon the people to boycott citizens of the United States who decline to carry out a voluntary proposal.

One effect of the act is to increase prices but that was one of its objects. We doubt, however, if an increase in the price of coal was contemplated, but the coal operators announce an increase of fifty cents a ton on anthracite and give N.I.R.A. (National Industrial Recovery Act) as the reason. If they did not have that reason they would find another. The advent of autumn always means an increase in prices. They can see fall coming afar off and do not wait for the melancholy days when the frost is on the "punkin" and the fodder's in the shock.
